I would agree with Life since 1. He's the father. 2. Why take hundreds of lives for a little money and possibly dangerous rights? I don't like the though of getting shot by my neighbor, and I don't think anyone likes it.

If I were tim I would take Sam's side not only because he was my brother but because I think it is worth dying to be free and also the British government can't controll us if they are in a totally different contry. They really don't know what we would be having to deal with here. They would have to come see what was going here to actually see what we are going through

I think I might also support Sam since I like freedom.

I would probably be on Sam's side because he wants to be free. If I was a person back then, I would wonder what it was like to be free, and not ruled by the British. I would also wonder what it eas like to make my own desitions,
